Empira White™ 5151

Delicate.
Timeless.

The memorable look of marble has always been timeless, ever since Ancient Greece. Yet marble today has a refreshed image, representing an expression of nature and is often introduced to urban interiors as a contrast to other elements. This is precisely what has made marble so fashionable again; less haughty and more about being organic. Its signature veining now extends to all kinds of design materials, from food and packaging to fashion and furniture. Marbling has become a leitmotif of the millennium.

Empira White is a unique marble quartz, its classical white base coloured in the purest of hues. This uplifting surface is an illuminating backdrop to the more dominant, almost black veins that traverse the countertop, creating interplay between darkness and light. Alive with emotion and movement, this structure is a refined rustle of fine lines atop shadowy alluvial layers that add depth. As Caesarstone's latest interpretation of authentic Calacatta marble, Empira White elevates any interior - offering the sophisticated beauty of natural stone with the durability and easy maintenance for which Caesarstone is renowned.

"A refined rustle of fine lines atop shadowy alluvial layers."

Choosing the Right Cabinetry for Empira White™ 5151

Marylou Cafaro

“Marble veining not only adds interest and character to the benchtop but instantly creates a welcoming timeless look.”
Marylou adds.

Marylou Cafaro explains how to choose the right cabinetry to match our newest marble inspired design, Empira White.

What is your advice for embracing the resurgence of the marble trend?

Marylou: There are a handful of interior elements that are considered classics that never date. A white marble inspired design like Empira White is one of them. Marble, like timber, has been used for centuries and are considered quality materials and both highly desired for joinery.

Caesarstone with marble veining not only adds interest and character to the benchtop but instantly creates a welcoming timeless look.

The marble look is the easiest to work with, in any style especially when teamed with the Polytec range of oak or walnut timber prints or profiled thermo doors, as this benchtop look is universally appealing.

Why are Ultra White Venette and Oxford Venette the perfect complement to Empira White?

Marylou: The colour of Polytec’s ultra white venette for doors, coordinates perfectly with the Empira White base colour.

As many kitchens adopt a contrast colour as well as complementary colour for the doors, the new Polytec Oxford venette draws inspiration from the inky dark tones in the marble veining of Empira White.

The dark blue Polytec Oxford colour can help to create either a refined industrial-style space, a sophisticated contemporary design style or a relaxed coastal inspired look.

What colour palette of furnishings and style of finishes would you recommend for this look?

Marylou: With a base palette of Empira White, clean ultra white and sophisticated Oxford, you can create many styles.

RELAXED - By adding oak flooring or furniture, you can create a relaxed feel.

COASTAL HAMPTON - By adding white tiles and blue accessories, you can create a coastal Hampton feel, especially if you include a profiled door.

REFINED INDUSTRIAL - By adding a concrete or terrazzo style floor, a more sophisticated industrial look.

“Marble designs are timeless and desirable. The individual character and look of marble designs guarantees a quality designed space that can be personalised to suit your taste.” Marylou adds.
